The Ypsilanti Commercial.

PUBLISHED WEEKLY, BY
C. R. PATTISON.

"To let our readers know the source of so much foul-mouthed venom, suffice it to say that the Commercial is edited by the Reverend Charles R. Pattison, a Baptist Minister—for the sake of our many Baptist friends, we trust of the 'hard shell persuasion.' That Mr. Pattison is what he professes, both a patriot and a Christian, may be true; but that he is a crack-brained fanatic is the more certain."—Ann Arbor Argus.

The tender-hearted, harmless Editor of the Argus quotes a portion of our editorial of Feb. 24th, and for a wonder his wrath was stirred within him. He allowed himself to be betrayed into the very sin he has taken occasion to accuse us of committing, pitching into the Editor instead of his paper. Well! friend Pond—we ask your pardon, Elihu B. Pond, Esq., we shall take no offense.

Never having had a virtual Presidential traitor in your party to the party you don't know just how such an occurrence would affect you. You have had traitors in your party to the country, and you did not scold them very hard; and many of them judging from their acts are unrepentant traitors still, and yet you seem willing to hold on to them and hold them in full fellowship.

We oppose the return of the Democratic traitors, until they shall have made full restitution for the past—do deeds meet for repentance by many acts of justice toward those whom they have for generations oppressed, and whom we have sacredly promised to protect—until they shall give ample guarantees and show forth by acts toward the Union loyalists white and black, that they are, like the prodigal son, fit to be received back into the paternal Union mansion. The very moment we have full evidence that such is the case we shall gladly and cordially welcome them. We leave it for our readers to decide, which is a "crack-brained fanatic." Elihu B. Pond, Esq., upholds the President in usurping the powers of Congress—in doing the very thing, for which the copperhead press was so vigorously down on Abraham Lincoln. On this point, which is a "crack-brained fanatic?" Elihu B. Pond, Esq., says: "Reverend Charles R. Pattison, a Baptist Minister."—Does this fact make him any the less a man or a citizen?

We beg leave to inform Elihu B. Pond, Esq., that as concerns the re-construction of rebel States upon a basis firm and sure, and just and right to the South and to the North, to the white and to the black, we are loyal, and to the loyalist, we trust we belong to the "hard shell persuasion." We shall sustain a "hard shell" Congress, and we believe results will show a "hard shell" majority of the American people to keep the ex-rebel States out of full fellowship in the Union and of further mischief to the country by a co-partnership with the Democratic party until the day of doom, unless they shall yield to the righteous requirements of loyalists in and out of Congress.

DON'T BELIEVE IT.

We don't believe that any party in this country can permanently succeed that denies the rights of man, that would crush because of color a portion of the men of this country. American liberty is growing stronger than any American party. Political equality is now no longer proclaimed by a few voices in the wilderness. The finest minds, the warmest hearts, the stoutest wills in this nation are marshaling for the rights of man. This is the party of the future. Its spirit is progress. Its creed is justice. It is bound to elect the next President. It blazes upon its banners those words dear to every American citizen justice, liberty, equal rights for all men. "The slave, a man; the man a citizen; the citizen a voter."

RIGHT IS RIGHT.

It is right to do justly by all God's creatures. For the American people to do injustice to that portion of themselves whom God has chosen to make black is cruelly wicked. We don't ask the enfranchisement of the blacks for the blacks sake only, but because justice is the highest and most precious interest of every human being.—If we would have peace, security, order, prosperity, we must be just to the negro. He is either a man or a brute. If he is a brute, every judge or juror who has ever convicted him of, or sentenced him for crime has outraged justice and insulted the God of justice.—If he is a man let him be treated as a man; give him the rights of a man.

WE ACCEPT THE CHALLENGE.—The threat of the President to crush agitation at the North, as rebellion has been crushed at the South, is a challenge that the North cannot refuse to accept, for the salvation of the Union and the supremacy of Northern principles are bound up in the issue. During the war Grant led the North and Lee the South. To-day Congress leads the North, and Andrew Johnson the South. Whose lead shall we follow? Our mind is made up.

"The principle is firmly fixed in the minds of the American people that there should be no taxation without representation."—President's Veto Mess.

Aye, aye, Mr. President. Just so. But you would tax and deny representation to 4,000,000 of people.

Adhere to this policy and you will find that this firmly fixed principle of justice "no taxation without representation" will weigh you in the balances and find you wanting.

CURRENT EVENTS.

The public debt was March 1st, $2,711,880,000.—Delegations keep calling on the President. They keep him talking. He is eminently our talking President.—The 1st Michigan Cavalry is ordered to be mustered out. It has seen service all along from the battle of Winchester, to the end of the war, in the great conflicts of the war.

A terrible accident has occurred on the Southern road 25 persons seriously injured.

Within about four or five miles of Kendallville, which is a little over 80 miles from Toledo, the coach immediately in front of the sleeping car ran off the track, dragging with it the latter, and thus the train went on about 18 rods, when it passed over a bridge of about 30 feet span, the two rear cars carrying with them the ties of the bridge, with the trucks of the cars loosed and pulled along. For 100 yards further, the train dashed madly on, the passengers in the meantime being jostled and thrown from one side of the car to the other. Terrified by what was going on, they shrieked loudly with fright. Another bridge over a small stream, and by some means or other the sleeping car and the coach in front of it, became detached from the train and were precipitated down the high embankment. The three cars and engine in front passed on in safety. The sleeping car when it was thrown down struck on the side and the roof fell entirely off, and the other car was turned completely over and struck flat on the roof.

The scene that followed cannot be described. The groans of the wounded, and the shrieks of the terrified passengers, could be heard above all the tumult. The engineer and baggage-men were unconscious of anything wrong when the train passed over the spot where the cars must have first left the track.

The above was horrible. It would seem that there ought to be some mode of communication with the engineer.

The concurrent resolution not to admit Southern members until Congress so decides has passed the Senate, 29 to 18.—Matters have very much tempered down in Washington. Sumner and Stevens so ruthlessly assailed in the President's speech, conduct themselves magnanimously. They commend themselves to the judgment of all true men.—A party discovered a giant of magnificent proportions in a cave near St. Joseph, Missouri. Says an eye witness:

"On one side was a raised platform of pure white marble, extending the entire length of the room; and on this platform they discovered a human form of gigantic size, and in excellent preservation. Its length, from head to feet, was thirty-eight feet six inches.—They could not measure the head, but it was immense, they should imagine about six feet. Two of the teeth were dislocated, and these they brought to town, and I have seen. They are now on the counter of the Pacific Hotel, for general inspection. One of them, is ten inches in circumference, and the other six inches."

The Portrait of President Lincoln was hissed at a tableau in Washington, and on the same occasion a portrait of McClellan was cheered. Of course by the supporters of President Johnson.—Thad. Stevens says he shall vote for the admission of the Tennessee delegation, otherwise the country might think that the happy relations between him and the President had been disturbed.—The charter elections throughout the State have gone mainly and largely Republican.—The Foman excitement is on the increase. Over 100,000 met in James Woods, N. Y. city last Sabbath, and took Irish bonds to a large amount, right in the teeth of opposition from the President.

"Secretary Seward announces that everything will be right in 'ninety days.' As the World says:

"Everything is lovely,
And the goose hangs high."

FREEDMEN'S BILL.—The President gives the expense of the Freedmen's Bureau Bill as a reason for vetoing it. It is an actual fact that the imperfect one that we now have has saved the Government millions of dollars. It is not as the President charges to feed and clothe 4,000,000 of people, but only to find employment for the ignorant and destitute, who are few in comparison to the great number. Gen. Howard shows that white refugees have received the care of the Government as well as blacks. The past year 90,000 blacks and 47,000 whites have been cared for.

AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE.—We have before us the Catalogue for 1865-6.—T. C. Abbott, A. M., is President; with nine other assistants, either as instructors or helpers. There are 88 students in all the departments. The first term for the year began last Wednesday Feb. 28.

Town on the President if true. A Washington correspondent says:

"The Bureau Bill was originally prepared by General Howard, and revised in consultation with Senator Trumbull. It was submitted to the President, who examined it with considerable care, and approved it cordially."

The following article from the N. Y. Tribune is true political gospel. It requires moral courage sometimes, but this is just the stuff required in these times. Stand up to the scratch and say I DON'T DO IT!

When one who declared that Lincoln's election provoked and justified Secession and Disunion, asks you to sign a political card, don't do it!

When one who wanted to coax traitors to desert from firing on the flag, seizing the fortresses and robbing the arsenals of your country by kicking the New England States out of the Union and agreeing that the slaveholders might take their human chattel in every State and place their "institution" in every Territory of the Union, asks you to unite with him in a political movement, don't do it!

When one who declared the war for the Union unjust, and proclaimed on the streets that the defense of their rights and their homes, asks you to unite with him in an avowed political sentiment and purpose, don't do it! When one who steadfastly insisted throughout our great struggle that the Rebels were always victorious—that our arms made no progress—that our National debt would be inevitably repaid—that the Union could only be restored by first giving up our principles and then asking the victors to let us creep in at the back door of their triumphant Confederacy, now urges you to sympathize and fraternize with him in denouncing as traitors and disunionists the foremost champions of Liberty and Union, now forever, one and inseparable, don't do it!

When one who denounced and raved at the Emancipation policy of President Lincoln as unconstitutional and suicidal—who declared that it had "united the South and divided the North"—that we could never succeed till it was repudiated—that, if Lincoln was re-elected, the Union would never be restored—now wants you to play second to his first, don't you fear to do it!

Saith the great Apostle to the Gentiles, "Be not deceived. Evil communications corrupt good manners." When all manner of copperheads and secession sympathizers ask you to train in their company, tell them you'll see them blasted first!

THESEWING MACHINE

Read the following and be convinced. Among the greatest revolutions of modern times must be ranked that which has been effected in domestic affairs by the Sewing Machine. If the steam engine nearly doubled the power of human life, and multiplied a thousandfold the power of mankind, so, also, has this great labor-saving invention. How clearly was its efficiency manifested during the gigantic war just ended! How could the millions of men who were so suddenly called ever have been promptly supplied with outfits without the tireless, lightning-like fingers of this little instrument?

Few who are not travelling extensively through the country are aware how universal this machine has taken the place of the old wringing machine. It has changed the idea of the extent of this substitution can be no better obtained than by a glance at the magnitude of some of the establishments. Of the number of the rival establishments, let us take one of the lead ones for an example. At the Grover & Baker factory, in Boston, the machinery for turning out the instruments, stands, and cabinets requires nearly five hundred men to work it. The company conduct twenty-four sales establishments, in their own name, in different parts of the United States, and in London and Liverpool, England, and in Melbourne, Australia. They have, moreover, agencies established in all the principal cities of the Old World, and in most every village of the New World.

The principal depot for foreign export is in this city, at No. 435 Broadway. This establishment occupies a building three stories in front on Broadway, and extending back 200 feet to Mercer Street. Unique in design and magnificently fitted up, it ranks among the first commercial palaces in the metropolis. From this place machines constantly being sent out to all parts of the world. They go among all ranks—not only the humble, but the very provided. They have been furnished, by command, to the empress of France; the empress of Russia; the empress of Brazil; the Queen of Spain; the Queen of Bavaria.

Now, remember that though the Grover & Baker Company are the leading one, there are a dozen others approximating more or less nearly to it in extent of operations, and if we combine them all in our calculation, we may obtain some idea of the astonishing magnitude of the Sewing Machine business.

But a still more important feature of the case is the beneficent mission it is performing in the myriad homes of our own and other lands. Lightening the cares of the household, taking upon itself the burden of the most exhaustive drudgery, it comes like a very angel of mercy into the domestic circle shedding sunshine and happiness around it.

We wish we had room for the many expressions of thankfulness and satisfaction we have received from correspondents related to this valuable "helpmate." As it is, we can give but a single one.

"We were much disappointed," writes a country person, a friend in this city, "at not being able to visit you; but the disappointment has been made up, at least so far as—I am concerned, by appropriating the money we had intended to use for that purpose to the purchase of a Grover & Baker Sewing Machine. You may be sure Fannie is delighted; four children have been her dream by night and day for several years."

"It is so nearly noiseless that she has placed it in my study, and so sin pleases me, that she has already learned to make up her family, and has actually so much with large 'pile' of small garments, as to render it possible that they may some day disappear altogether."

"At first I strongly objected to having it in the study, for fear of disturbance during my quiet hours; but soon found that it did not disturb me in the least, and now I can recall with better with its gentle musical sound in my ears. The only difficulty is, that Fannie is constantly jumping up to claim my admiration on some fresh achievement. One day she is the rosier one, and another day she is the finer licks in the baby's cambric frock; and another time she is stitching upon my shirt, or some still more wonderful result in making up a cloth bag."

"Excuse me for devoting so much of my letter to this great little machine. At present it is the principal subject of our thoughts, and it is the principal subject of our conversation. It has really transformed me into something like the bright, active, cheerful girl she was ten years ago. Thank Heaven for our Grover & Baker!"

This testimony, given in an indirect way, and without any idea of its reaching the public, is only one among ten thousand evidence of the high estimation in which the Grover & Baker Machine is held by families who possess them. Into whatever house it enters it carries sunshine—sunshine which is not darkened by difficulties at all complications, and is unsatisfactory results, but becomes brighter and brighter with use, and glad surprise, every new development of its admirable qualities.

Its mechanism is simple, but perfect; easily understood; exact in its working; true, as the needle to the pole, to its mission. Under the operation the delicate folds of lace and cambric appear like beauty, and the stoutest woollen fabric acquires a charm to its usefulness. Its swift, noiseless fingers are never tired, never weary, always ready to execute the will of its mistress. Under its influence order and neatness take the place of disorder and sloth, and grace and refinement find time and room to grow and expand in the humblest home.

gets out of order, but in its tireless activity, becomes brighter, more beautiful and more efficient the more it is used. It has taken out more wrinkles, and beautified more women who were fast growing old and ugly, than the 'Balm of a Thousand Flowers.' It is the greatest lightener of household cares and the richest domestic blessing of the nineteenth century. Ask any woman who uses one if it is not—Home Journal.

MISPLACED CONFIDENCE.—Speaker Colfax waged a box of cigars with a friend, a member of the House, that the President would approve the Freedmen's Bureau Bill. He lost, of course, and the member the next morning after the reception of the veto message found the cigars on his desk, labeled "From a victim of misplaced confidence."

A German writer says a young girl is a fishing rod, the eyes are the hook, the smile the bait, the lover the gudgeon, and marriage the batter in which he is fried.

Gentlemen who smoke allege that it makes them calm and complacent.—They tell us the more they fume the less they fret.

Normal Exercises.

Opened with an address Tuesday evening,
by President Abbott of the Agricultural College. His subject was assigned him, "The Study of Words." The theme was philosophically and ably handled. It was a noble eulogy of our Saxon Mother Tongue. Though an effort was made by the Norman Kings to make the French the common language, it was in vain. The common people would speak the Saxon. Swine was swine with the Saxon; pork, when it came on the table of the Norman lord. It was ox on the table of the Saxon, but became beef on the table of the Norman. He enumerated a number of pithy Saxon words, that give strength and vigor to the English language, and then their correlatives in Latin, &c. The former rougher, more pointed and stronger; the latter softer, more polite, and rounded. The Norman words gradually came to mingle, and formed our over 36,000 beautiful, forcible words. (It is a wonder that only 26 letters can be combined to make so many words.) In studying the meaning of words, we must take their clear, common sense meaning. It is a fallacy that we must go back to the original to ascertain the present meaning of terms. He enforced
the study of words as a valuable aid in vigorous writing, terse expression of thought in speaking, and exciting the valuable gift of conversation. He closed by reciting some beautiful lines. We wish the American teachers of our day, could only give the same sentiment. I shot an arrow and it fell to the ground—I knew not where. I sang a song and it was breathed out into the balmy air.
I went out and found the arrow in the oak;
but the song I found in the heart of a friend.
The music was in it always. "Softly, sweetly," conducted by E. H. Pease, Mr.
Donaldson, now ex-President of the Normal
Lyceum, in a few appropriate remarks bade farewell to Presidential honors, and introduced his successor, Mr. Ploverman, who made his introductory speech and dismissed the assessment of the evening with a good night.
Wednesday afternoon, Miss Mary A. Rice read an essay on the "Reflex Influence of Teaching." It was impressively read. It was a biting, sarcastic, scathing, bold dissection of a teacher's life and position. If a true expose thereof could be read that any friend of ours should become a professional teacher. She trembled for any woman entering the teachers' department. Nothing but love is a sufficient incentive. We should have been glad to have had every school board
and every director of a school in Michigan
hear it.

Mr. Whitney read an able essay on "School Reports." He contended that a system of such reports should be taught in the Normal School and in the Teachers' Institutes. The roll of the graduates of the Normal was called and their present business inquiries into.
Far too many from pecuniary incentives have chosen other pursuits and a goodly number are recorded steadfast. Judging by the fair looks of the recent lady graduates it is not surprising that so many are noted as married.

In the evening President Haven of the University delivered an address on the prime duties of educators and the dangers that beset them in their career of usefulness. A purely educated man is a faultless monster.
Earth has never seen such a specimen. The whole of life clear down to the grave is a process of education. We never graduate from this seminary until we cease to breathe. We then enter a state whence no alumnus ever returns to visit his alma mater. He contrasted the thoroughly College educated man with self educated men, with the advantages all in favor of the former. The latter always limp-
ing. He thought that Democratic institutions were best for those who can sustain them.
Monarchy is best for those who deserve no better. It was a fine hit in reference to those who have so much to say about the dirty pool of politics. If dirty, do our best towards cleaning it. It was a clear, logical address, and commanded undivided attention throughout.

GRADUATING EXERCISES.
The Normal Choir sang. "And the glory of the Lord. Prayer by Rev. Mr. Brigham, of Ann Arbor. Another piece of music, "Awake
the Harp."
Fame a Reality, was the introductory theme
by V. P. Bayley, Big Beaver. Fame is real.
To praise the good is innate in our nature.
Youth needs to be pointed to the right, and righteous, famous men are good examples.
Monuments perish, but fame resting on true
merit lives forever.

Crystallized Common Sense, Marie A. Bills, Tecumseh. Great men not always gifted with common sense. Once thought such men not common clay, now see the fallacy. Good sense is refined by education. She gave a noble and deserved tribute to the common sense of Abraham Lincoln. A man in high position destitute of this element might as well be in purgatory.

"While getting Gain," Ellen Bishop, Burns.
Many rush forward so fast as to lose all pace
in acquisition. United the American characteristic. She pertinently contrasted the English and French ease and joviality of feeling with our own at the table, observance of frequent holidays, and enforced a greater number of such days among us. "Othello's Occupation's Gone," Anna P. Buckman, Salina.
Some persons would make hell of heaven, and heaven of hell. A happy analysis of Shaks-peare's Othello and Desdemona. She made a practical hit on old people surrendering to younger their occupation, thinking to resign
care and trouble only to gather it foundation. A. C. Nichols, Charlotte, Salina.
Materialism, A. C. Nichols, Charlotte, Salina.
All of us do it, to study its phenomena. Brain is not the mind but the seat of the mind. Close reasoning and logical. Quartette, "Come Gentle Spring." Boots and Wings, Matilda
S. Brown, Walley Lake. Boots for the par-ment, wings for the azure. Algebric Speech, Nellie S. Creelman, Ypsilanti. Always a reason back of a formula. Plus and minus reach after thought. The sixteen of olden preachers were famous examples. Formulas inspire a happy expression of ideas. The "Now and forever" of Webster. Lives in the memories of men. An apt hit on shoddy and petroleum! Said a friend at my side the best so far. Misdirected Enthusiasm, Helen F.
Williams, Webster. Some persons blindly enforce every new creed. She gave some eminent examples of wrong headed enthusiasm.
Napoleon, who trampled on love and built an empire on the woes of wretched humanity.
The cautiously exposed the rebel enthusiasm
during the South and North, and now in reference to reconstruction. She paid a beautiful tribute to the common sense enthusiasm of Freedom's martyr, Lincoln. Justice the foundation rock of well directed enthusiasm.
"Yes and No," Josephine Young, Dansville.
A poem. World moved by little things. Little words, yes and no, but mighty in meaning.
A Quaker's eye or nay is more potent than any oath. "Right of Suffrage," P. S. Green, Ann Arbor. Plastic prejudice instead of right reason sways men's minds too generally on this subject. A manly appeal for equality before the law. Anthem, "Lift up your heads, O ye gates." "Castles," Anna P. Edwards, Adrian. The tendency of these castles, night and day dreams is to equalize human happi-

SPECIAL NOTICES.

STOCKHOLDER'S MEETING.

There will be a meeting of the Stockholders of the Ypsilanti Woolen Manufacturing Co. at their office on Saturday, the 24th day of March 1866, between the hours of one and three
P. M., for the purpose of voting to increase the capital stock of said Company Fifty Thousand Dollars, and for the transaction of such other business as may come before the meeting.
J. RICKFORD, Secy.
Ypsilanti, March 8th, 1866.

TO CONSUMPTIVES.

The advertiser, having been restored to health
in a few weeks by a very simple remedy, after having suffered for years with a severe lung affection and that dread disease consumption—
is anxious to make known to his fellow sufferers the means of cure.

To all who desire it, he will send a copy of the prescription used, free of charge, with directions for preparing and using the same,
which they will find a sure cure for Consumption, Asthma, Bronchitis, Coughs, colds and all throat and lung affections. The only object of the advertiser in sending the prescription is to benefit the afflicted and spread information which he conceives to be invaluable, and he hopes every sufferer will try his remedy, as it will cost them nothing, and may prove a blessing.

STRANGE, BUT TRUE.

Every young lady and gentleman in the United States can hear something very much to their advantage by return mail, free of charge, by addressing the undersigned. Those having fears of being humbugged will oblige by not noticing this card. All others will please address their obedient servant,
THOS. F. CHAPMAN,
1599 881 Broadway, N. Y.

ERRORS OF YOUTH.

A Gentleman who suffered for years from Nervous Debility, premature decay and all the effects of youthful indiscretion, will for the sake of suffering humanity send free to all who need it the recipe and directions for making the simple remedy by which he was cured—
Sufferers wishing to profit by the advertiser's experience can do so by addressing

THE NEEDLE CANNOT BE SET WRONG.

NO BREAKING OF NEEDLES.

THE HEMMER AND FELLER CAN NEVER BE SET WRONG.

Any one may adjust them to suit. The hem may be of any width. No other machine or tool is like this. It turns the hem up the right, regular side as you wish.

IT WILL NOT BURN THE FABRIC. As the needle is always set right, the blade does not catch, does not vibrate, like those of other machines.

It turns by steam at 2000 stitches per minute—other machines at 1000. It sews 40 to 100. It is the best of all.

ACT OF COFFEE.

Be the method of preparing coffee what it may, it is first requisite to sort the berries. Foreign substances are frequently found among them, bits of wool, feathers, and usually a number of mouldy berries, which must be taken away; for our sense of taste is so delicate that the smallest admixture cannot escape notice.

Berries of dark or green hue are generally dyed; and these must first be washed in a little water and afterwards dried in a small linen cloth; with those of a pale color this is unnecessary.

The next operation is the roasting. On this depends the good quality of the coffee. In reality the berries should only be roasted until they have lost their horny condition, so that they may be ground, as done in the East, pounded to a fine powder.

Coffee contains a crystalline substance named caffeine or theine, because it is also a component part of tea.

This matter is volatile, and every care must be taken to retain it in the coffee. For this purpose the berries should be roasted till they are of a pale brown color; if they are black the essential parts of the berries are entirely destroyed, and the beverage prepared from these does not deserve the name of coffee.

The berries of coffee, once roasted, lose every hour somewhat of their aroma, in consequence of the influence of the oxygen of the air, which, to the porosity of the roasted berries, can easily penetrate.

This pernicious change may best be avoided by stewing over the berries, when the roasting is complete, and while the vessel in which it has been done is still hot, some powdered white or brown sugar (half an ounce to one pound of coffee is sufficient). The sugar melts immediately, and by well shaking or turning the roaster, quickly, it spreads over all the berries, and gives each one a fine glaze, impervious to the atmosphere. They have then a shining appearance, as though covered with a varnish, and they in consequence lose their smell entirely, which, however, returns in a high degree as soon as they are ground.

After this operation, they are to be shaken out rapidly from the roaster and spread on a cold plate of iron, so that they may cool as soon as possible. If the hot berries are allowed to remain heaped together, they begin to sweat and when the quantity is large the heating process, by the influence of air increases to such a degree that at last they take fire spontaneously. The roasted and glazed berries should be kept in a dry place, because the covering of the sugar attracts moisture.

If the raw berries are boiled in water, from 23 to 24 per cent, of soluble matter is extracted. On being roasted until they assume a pale chestnut color, they lose 15 to 16 per cent, and the extract obtained from these by means of boiling water is 20 to 21 per cent. of the weight of the unroasted berries. The loss in weight of the extract is much larger when the roasting process is carried on till the color of the berries is dark brown or black. At the same time that the berries lose in weight by roasting they gain in volume by swelling; 100 volume 150 to 160; or two pint measures of unroasted berries give three pints when roasted.

The usual method of preparing coffee are, first, by filtration; second, by infusion third, by boiling.

Filtration gives often, but it is always a good cup of coffee. When the pouring the boiling water over the ground coffee is done slowly, the drops in passing come in contact with too much air, whose oxygen works a change in the aromatic particles, and often destroys them entirely. The extraction, moreover, is incomplete. Instead of 20 to 21 per cent, the water dissolves only 11 to 15 per cent., and 7 to 10 per cent is lost.

Infusion is accomplished by making the water boil, and then putting in the ground coffee; the vessel being immediately taken off the fire and allowed to stand quietly for about ten minutes. The coffee is ready for use when the powder swimming on the surface falls to the bottom on slightly stirring it. This method gives a very aromatic coffee, but one containing a little extract.

Boiling, as is the custom in the East yields excellent coffee. The powder is put on the fire in cold water, which is allowed merely to boil up a few seconds. The fine particles of coffee are drunk with the beverage. It boiled long, the aromatic parts are volatilized and the coffee is then rich in contact, and poor in aroma.

As the best method, I adopt the following which is the union of the second and third.

With three fourths of the coffee to be employed, after being ground, the water is made to boil for 10 or 15 minutes. The one-quarter of the coffee which has been kept back, is then flung in, and the vessel immediately withdrawn from the fire, covered over, and allowed to stand five or six minutes. In order that the powder on the surface may fall to the bottom, it is stirred around; the deposit takes place, and the coffee poured off is ready for use. In order to separate the dregs more completely, the coffee may be passed through a clean cloth; but generally this is not necessary and often prejudicial to the flavor of the beverage.

The first boiling gives the strength, the second addition the flavor. The water does not dissolve of the aromatic substance more than the fourth part contained in the roasted coffee.

The beverage when ready, ought to be of a brown-black color; transparent it always is, somewhat like chocolate thinned with water; and this want of clearness in coffee be prepared does not come from the fine grounds, but from a peculiar fat resembling butter, about twelve per cent, of which the berries contain, and which if over-roasted, is partly destroyed.

In the other methods of making coffee, more than the half of the valuable parts of the berries remains in the "grounds," and is lost.

 "An English gentleman, formerly connected with the British Army, and who styles himself the 'English Botanic Physician,' has of late gained an extensive reputation here by his skill in curing all manner of complaints. Some of his patients I have conversed with, and they pronounce his remedies and mode of treatment as very superior. Some have been cured of long standing diseases by his use of his medicine, and others are now recovering from their ailments. He is a large number have been tested that they owe no other benefit to any other medicine, and to the skill of the English Botanic Physician."

It seems he has found a sure and speedy cure for all the ills that flesh is heir to. His practice is already extensive, and is daily increasing. He has no equal, as a large number have been tested that they owe no other benefit to any other medicine, and to the skill of the English Botanic Physician."

DR. RAPHAEL'S VOICE IN CONTEMPLATING MARRIAGE. Hear what the Baltimore correspondent of the Oldfield, Baltimore, Maryland, said Thursday, 21st of April, 1865.
 "Numerous cases of diseases caused by early indiscretion having been performed by the English Botanic Physician, I feel it my duty to state my knowledge of them, to state the fact, believing that in doing so I may do good to the suffering. Having seen a number of the children of a young man in this city, who is worthy of note. He had become the victim of a habit, the more allusion to which would be a disservice, and after years of suffering and doctoring gave up all hopes of recovery. He wished to marry, and was daily being by an agent a girl as over-laps, words of affection, but he was fearful, nervous, and prostrated. He dared not wed on account of the shattered state of his system. He consulted the hands of the Botanic Physician, and, astonishing as it may seem, all the bloom and vigor of youth has returned, and he now the happy father of a pair of bright boys."
